Last Respects Paid To Gen. MacArthur

NEW YORK (AP) — Diplomats and generals, soldiers who served him and the common people who admired him paid solemn and dignified last respects today to General of the Army Douglas MacArthur.

The stilled, yet majestic figure in simple sun tan uniform lay in a history-laden armory, a magnet for Americans conscious of their heritage.

Two hours before the doors of the 7th Regiment Armory opened to the public at 10 a.m., lines formed behind police barriers. Under a gray sky, limousines arrived bringing dignitaries.

A religious service preceded the public opening of the armory, home of "the Silk Stocking Regiment."

MacArthur's widow, Jean; and son, Arthur, 26, were escorted to the private service by Lt. Gen. Garrison H. Davidson, commander of the 1st Army, who represented the President. They stood with bowed heads beside MacArthur's five-star personal flag, close to the bier, as Catholic, Protestant and Jewish clergymen prayed.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York, prayed for the general, who had worshipped as an Episcopalian.

"With grieving hearts we wave a fond farewell to a beloved friend, a brave soldier, a man of peace, a man of God. We pray for you the hero's welcome you so well deserve in the eternal land of the free and home of the brave."

Among the dignitaries who entered the armory were U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson; Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.; Gen. Lucius D. Clay; New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller; former Secretary of the Army Kenneth W. Royall; New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner; former Postmaster General James A. Farley, and newspaper executive and editor William Randolph Hearst Jr.

Gen. Davidson acted as President Johnson's personal representative to lay a wreath on the casket of the 84-year-old warrior who died Sunday in Washington after three major operations.

Among the earliest arrivals of the several hundred who waited for the public viewing was John Naina, 47. A schoolteacher, he took the day off and drove 75 miles from Middletown, N.Y., to honor a man he met as an Army lieutenant in Australia.

Inside, the floral tributes included a huge rainbow of flowers from the 42nd Division, the "Rainbow Division" MacArthur helped organize and commanded in battle in World War I.

Another wreath, from the Franconia Athletic and Civic Association, bore the words:

"To one old soldier who will never fade away."

Services were conducted by clergymen of three faiths before the opening of the armory on park avenue at 67th street to the public. They were the Rt. Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan, Episcopal bishop of New York; the Rev. T. J. Finlay, rector of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal church here and minister to the MacArthur family; Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York; and Rabbi Max Schenk, president of the New York Board of Rabbis.

As the body lay in repose,

19-gun salutes roared at many places—at West Point where he made the most brilliant scholastic record of all time, and later was superintendent; in New York, as well as other Army areas on the continent, and at selected points in the Pacific.

In Washington, leaders of Congress made arrangements for the body to lie in state in the Capitol rotunda Wednesday and Thursday. The general will be buried in the MacArthur Memorial building at Norfolk, Va., Saturday, after funeral services at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in that city.

Doctors Strike; Hospitals Full

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — With hospitals overflowing, Belgium's 12,000 striking doctors and dentists rejected anew today the government's controversial socialized medical plan and refused appeals to return to their normal round of duties.

The seven-day-old walkout continued with the nation's hospitals becoming more crowded by the hour.

The strikers issued a 1,000-word memorandum denouncing the new medical law which they claimed would bring intolerable interference in the practice of their professions.

However, the doctors by implication accepted the idea of some form of national health service. But they insisted any such system must contain safeguards to guarantee their independence, protect the confidence of their patients and allow any person freedom to select his own doctor.

Wary nurses struggled to keep up with the flood of patients. Beds were set up in the corridors. Some civilian patients were sent to military hospitals.

Only serious cases were admitted, brought in under emergency arrangements set up by the 10,000 striking doctors, who have been joined by 2,000 dentists.

The physicians, who are protesting new provisions in Belgium's national health scene, have arranged to treat pressing cases. But their opponents claim this is not meeting the needs of the country's 9 million people.

Interior Minister Arthur Gilson said the emergency setup was "not sufficient because there is no treatment for sick people at home and because the physicians refuse to function except in the main hospitals."

The doctors have refused a request by Gilson to use private clinics for emergency cases, contending they are not adequately equipped. Such clinics could provide 600 more beds in the Brussels area.

Authorities have recalled some Belgian army medical units from West Germany but won't say how many men are involved. Premier Theo Lefevre said the Cabinet does not plan to transfer the entire army medical corps to civilian duty.

Doctors throughout Belgium continued their refusal to make house calls or see patients in their offices.

Two doctors were arrested Monday in Olen for failing to help an 18-month-old boy who died of what police described as a serious lung ailment.

Lefevre announced that as long as the strike continued, his government would refuse to negotiate.

The national health program, in operation since World War II, covers five million Belgians. Doctors have fixed their own fees for each case, and the health fund reimbursed the patients. The fund has a deficit of $20 million.

Leevre's Catholic-Socialist coalition, when it came to power in 1961, promised to reform the debt-ridden program. The revised health statute sets a scale of maximum charges for the doctors. Increases demanded by the doctors would total $10 million a year.

Appalachian Drive Chief Raps Boycott by Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state administration has enlarged on the economic development program it has in mind for Southeast Ohio. But federal Appalachian redevelopment chief Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. says Gov. James A. Rhodes is wrong in keeping Southeast Ohio out of the federal program.

Rhodes announced Monday that a meeting will be held in Athens April 24 to unveil his substitute for participation in the federal program for Appalachia.

The governor's development director, George E. Wilson, followed up Monday night by going into various aspects of the state plan.

Roosevelt, meanwhile, described as regrettable Ohio's decision to stay out of the federal program. He was in Yellow Springs and Columbus for talks at Antioch College and to the Central Ohio chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic society.

He described aims of President John's "war of poverty" in his speeches. In interviews he said Ohio's failure to take part in the Appalachian project could hurt both Ohio and the eight states that are in the federal plan.

Rhodes explained Monday that he wants to avoid a "poverty" tag on Southeast Ohio for fear it would discourage industry from moving in.

Roosevelt said a major highway through Appalachia "may end at the Ohio line because of Ohio's refusal to take part in the program. I consider this an example of what can happen to Southeastern Ohio. Better communications into, out of and

2 Polls Report Lodge as Leader

NEW YORK (AP) — A public opinion poll by Louis Harris for Newsweek magazine shows Henry Cabot Lodge well in front for the Republican nomination for president.

Harris' survey agreed with results of a similar poll by George Gallup — that Lodge's surprise victory in the New Hampshire primary has boosted him ahead of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

College To Handle Unruly Student Case

GAMBIER, Ohio (AP) — Kenyon College students photographed carrying uprooted, defaced tree signs during Sunday's demonstration against village traffic law enforcement will be asked to make restitution for damage.

Officials of Kenyon and Gambier conferred Monday night and agreed that the village will take no action against any of the estimated 300 demonstrators but that the school will within the Appalachian region would be handicapped by Ohio failure to participate."

Rhodes' administrative assistant, John McElroy, said, "We think Ohio can do for those counties what we think should be done."

He said $264 million has been programmed to build 315 miles of interstate and primary highways to help bring industry and tourists to Ohio's Appalachian foothills.

"If we can get federal help on roads," McElroy said, the state can do as much for itself as the Appalachian Regional Commission might do for it.

The state share of the road program would come from a $500 million highway bond issue which goes before the voters May 5. Educational and recreational improvement funds are contemplated from the $250 million capital improvements bond issue enacted last November.

Delinquent BUC Funds Collected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Collection of $476,606 from delinquent employers and recovery of more than $250,000 from benefit claimants who obtained payments illegally in the first quarter of 1964, was reported by the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation today.

Willard P. Dudley, bureau administrator, reported to Gov. James A. Rhodes these collections: January, $189,577 from delinquent employers, and $85,911 from claimants; February, $131,728 from delinquent employers and $69,482 from claimants; March, $155,301 from delinquent employers and $94,618 from claimants.

Dudley also advised the governor that since the proof of marriage and dependency rules went into effect in the spring of 1963, fraudulent claims relating to dependency have "practically been eliminated" and nearly all of the prosecutions on this charge are the result of actions by claimants in prior years.

Most fraud prosecutions now being made result from claimants failing to report earnings while drawing unemployment benefits. In the first quarter of this year, the bureau investigated 2,314 suspicious claims resulting in uncovering of 1,145 cases of willful fraud and 463 persons accepting benefit payments illegally.

Mt. Etna Blows Again

CATANIA, Sicily (AP) — A violent eruption today shook Mt. Etna, Europe's highest volcano, sending molten rock and burning ash into the air, but there was no immediate report of danger to the population.

Russian Troops Pull from Cuba

Wisconsin Poll Tied to Rights

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin voters choose today between their governor, John W. Reynolds, and Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama in a presidential primary that has evolved into a referendum on the federal civil rights bill.

Reynolds is running as a favorite son, pledged to cast Wisconsin's 46 votes in the Democratic National Convention for President Johnson.

The primary is the first test of the ability of Wallace, an uncompromising segregationist, to draw voter support in a Northern state.

Complicating the picture is the possibility of Republican participation in the Democratic contest.

State Election Supervisor Leo Fahey has predicted a million votes may be cast. This would be 200,000 short of the record primary ballot, cast in 1960 when the late John F. Kennedy won a majority of Democratic delegates from Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota.

Cloudy skies with showers or snow flurries and temperatures in the 20s and 30s were forecast. A telegram from President Johnson describing Reynolds as "a patriot and a leader in whom we can all take pride" was read at a testimonial dinner for the governor Saturday night in Madison by Postmaster General John Gronouski. Gronouski, former state tax commissioner, returned to the state Friday to help Reynolds campaign.

White House press secretary George Reedy said Monday night in Washington the telegram was "solely and simply a Democratic fund-raising dinner, which as far as we were informed, was being given in honor of the governor of Wisconsin."

The White House policy of not intervening in any primaries still stands, he said.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy also sent a message to the dinner, saying, "a substantial victory for Reynolds' slate will

Homeless Get Aid in Alaska

Relief Operations Proving Difficult

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Thirty-five refugees from the village of Portage, 40 miles southeast of here, are staying in a log lodge called "Diamond Jim's."

An Anchorage grade school is home of 266 Indians from Kodiak Island.

Thirty-eight villagers from Chena are living in a church at Cordova.

These are examples of how Alaskans and relief agencies are caring for those left homeless by the earthquake and tidal waves of March 27.

Disaster workers call it one of the most unusual and difficult relief operations of recent times. Faced with poor communications and great distances, relief forces have relied on helicopters, planes, trucks, autos and foot travel to bring aid.

Money and other contributions have poured in from around the country. A 7-year-old New Jersey boy offered an Easter basket. Portland lumbermen donated a shipload of lumber and longshoremen offered to load it without pay. The Japanese government and Pope Paul VI each sent $10,000. The Methodist Council of Bishops declared April 5 Alaska Earthquake Appeal Sunday.

Red Cross and Salvation Army spokesmen said further shipments of food and clothing right now would only cause transportation, storage and handling problems. Instead, they said, Alaskans need cash with which to repair, rebuild and furnish their homes and buy food and clothing.

Piqua Firm's Safe Is Found on Farm

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A safe belonging to the W. H. Armstrong Co. of Piqua was found on the Bellis Runner farm near here Monday, the highway patrol reported.

The patrol said the door of the safe had been ripped open and canceled checks and ledger books were strewn about.

The patrol quoted Piqua police as saying the safe had been taken from the Piqua firm earlier in the day. It had contained $150 in cash, but only $1.19 was found with the safe, the patrol said.

U.S. Maintains Close Watch

Total Remaining Still Uncertain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Informal sources said today the Soviet Union has been pulling its troops out of Cuba in considerable numbers.

U.S. officials confirmed this, but as usual declined to estimate how many Soviet military men still are in Cuba.

At the time of the Cuban missile crisis in October 1962 it was estimated that 22,000 Soviet troops, many of them in organized combat units, were in Cuba. A number of them were technical experts in Cuba. A number of them were technical experts in the long-range weapons and other war gear Moscow has poured into Cuba to make it the most powerful military nation in Latin America.

Last October U.S. officials indicated that a report that the Soviet troop presence had dropped to less than 7,600 was a pretty fair guess. Presumably the current figure is somewhere around 4,000.

The most recent formal statement by a U.S. government agency on the Soviet troop situation in Cuba came in a nine-word observation all but buried in a State Department report to the House Foreign Affairs Committee. It said: "Most Soviet troops have been withdrawn from the island."

McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to President Johnson on international security affairs, said in an interview on a radio

Cafe Patron Scoffs; Thug Wilts, Flees

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — An attempted holdup was foiled Monday night because a restaurant patron refused to be intimidated — perhaps, too, because the holdup man wasn't the most courageous in the world.

Noreen Sheets, a waitress at the Slemma Road Grill, said a man walked in carrying a paper bag. She said he told her to fill it up, which she did — with all the money in the cash register.

A customer, Gordon Utery of Springfield, who had been silently observing the drama from his seat at the counter, said:

"I don't believe he means it. Give me that bag."

Utery's assessment of the situation was accurate, because the would-be desperado gulped once, then fled the premises without the money.

Big Ship Fells Bridge Span

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (AP) — The heavily loaded supertanker Esso Maracaibo knocked out a 1,500-foot section of the bridge across Lake Maracaibo early today, plunging two or more automobiles from the bridge into the water.

All traffic on the lake—center of Venezuela's huge oil industry—was halted for 90 minutes. Divers with searchlights were combing the lake bed looking for two to four cars reported to have sunk.

None of the 36,000-ton tanker's all-Venezuelan crew was hurt, although great chunks of concrete from the overpass fell on the vessel's bow causing it to list heavily.

Mine Peace Sought

BELLAIRE, Ohio (AP) — Personal representatives of United Mine Workers Union President W.A. Boyle were due here today to intensify efforts to end wildcat strikes which have idled coal miners in six states.

CURB SERVICE SLATED — Morris' Drive-In Restaurant, one mile south on Route 23, will celebrate opening of its curb service area beginning Friday. Free prizes will be given away at regular intervals in addition to a free beverage to all customers. A grand prize will be awarded 7 p. m. Saturday. The restaurant is co-operating with the gas company's Blue Flame Festival at the Fairgrounds and has contributed several prizes. A specialty of the local restaurant is fresh chicken dinners. Co-owners are Morris E. Tilley and E. Dotson, both experienced restaurant men.

Oklahoma Bootleggers Now Part of Nostalgic History

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—The bootlegger has become part of Oklahoma's nostalgic past.

Whisky, never really hard to find in this state, observed its fifth legal birthday today.

In a special election on April 7, 1959, Oklahoma voters repealed prohibition and put 2,500 bootleggers out of work.

Since then, legalized liquor has grown into a $50-million business in Oklahoma and has produced $33 million in tax revenue.

Prohibition was written into the state constitution when Oklahoma became a state in 1907. There were a half dozen repeal elections. But the drays always won.

Their only concession came in 1933, when 3.2 or low-point beer was legalized.

Then in 1958, J. Howard Edmondson, Democratic candidate for governor, promised to crack down on the bootlegger and push for repeal.

When Edmondson took office in 1959, he ordered law officers to dry up the state. Police didn't eliminate illegal whisky, but they made it harder to get—and more expensive.

The 1959 legislature followed up with a call for a repeal election, and the wets won by 85,000 votes.

Prohibitionists claim that Oklahomans now buy and drink more whisky than ever before.

Roy Parham, director of the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, concedes that liquor sales have risen since repeal, but claims there is less public drunkenness and crowds are less boisterous.

Cleveland School Board May Seek Court Action

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland school board has voted to go to court, if necessary, for an order to ban demonstrators such as those who protested themselves Monday in front of heavy construction equipment at the site of a new school.

Police arrested 21 demonstrators, most of them Negroes, at the East Side site of the new elementary school.

Some of the demonstrators, among about 100 pickets protesting erection of a new school, threw themselves in front of cement mixer trucks, climbed under the wheels of stopped trucks, or raced across the building site to leap into newly dug trenches.

Police dragged and lifted the demonstrators, some of whom struggled and squirmed, hauling them to waiting paddy wagons.

The pickets represented the Congress of Racial Equality, the Hazeldell Parents Association and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The civil rights groups are demanding a moratorium on school construction in the predominantly Negro Glendale area where the board is planning three new schools to relieve overcrowding.

Opponents of school construction contend that new schools there will promote "re-segregation." Some 800 pupils from Hazeldell school in the Glendale area now are transported daily by bus to schools in predominantly white areas. Construction of new schools would end the bus transportation.

Ellsworth H. Harpole, director of the Community Relations Board, was on the scene and told newsmen he thought the situation was critical. He said the board "can't just close the gates; there have to be more meetings and conferences."

The school board met while the demonstration was in progress and acted to "prohibit further unlawful acts of trespass on any of the property of the board of education."

The board, which has one Negro member, passed the resolution unanimously and gave President Ralph A. McAllister power to go to court to seek an injunction against demonstrators.

Brown Comments On Mac's Strategy

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Mourning for the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur "is mingled with the regret that more heed was not given his military strategy in Korea," Secretary of State Ted W. Brown says.

"The failures we find in Cuba, Latin America and Viet Nam are closely linked with our failure to deal with Red China in an earlier day," Brown told a Republican meeting here Monday night.

He is seeking the GOP nomination for U.S. Senate in Ohio's May 5 primary.

Brown asserted that if America had done what MacArthur wanted, "we would not have had the growing menace of Red China on freedom's doorstep today."

Scientists are planning a 10-year study of the earth's water resources in light of quickening needs from population, industry and agriculture, to begin in 1965.

Broadway Touch Due at Festival Opener Tomorrow

Broadway music from some of the most popular musical shows on that famed street form the background for the first performance of the Blue Flame Festival. The show will open here tomorrow.

"Tell You What We're Gonna Do" is the title for the initial show. The two-day Festival will be given both days from the stage of the Pickaway Co. Fairgrounds Coliseum. Curtain time is 8 p. m. for both shows and admission is free.

The Blue Flame Festival is being brought to Circleville by Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., and is co-sponsored by the Circleville Herald and cooperating merchants.

Hostess Alice Ashworth and Blue Flame Festival Manager

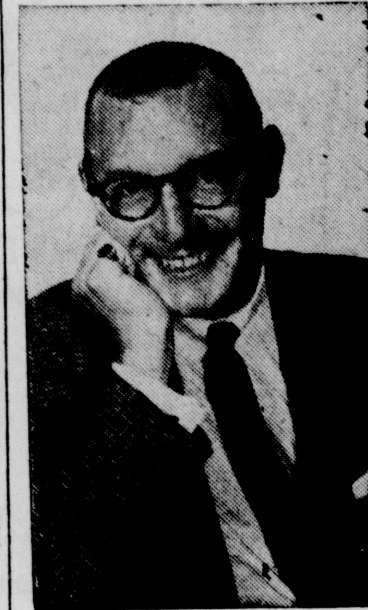

ALICE ASHWORTH

Bob Eichhorn were scheduled to arrive here today, together with the Festival's special truck and trailer, to oversee preparations for opening the two-day show tomorrow. A specially designed stage setting will help to bring to local area audiences new and exotic foods, new uses for natural gas and new products in the homemaking field.

MISS ASHWORTH, a home economist with a flair for entertaining presentations, and Eichhorn, the experienced, fun-loving Festival manager, will be assisted on stage by Betty Newton, home service adviser for the Gas Co. office here.

The newest in cooking equipment will be utilized to demonstrate the preparation of some new food ideas while some of the most popular numbers from well-loved musical shows of

India's Problems Grow

Picture a land area one-third the size of the United States. Fill it with all the inhabitants of Africa and Latin America. About one-third of the population works the land with implements which have changed little since the Middle Ages. In a few sections of the country, new state-owned industries have been built. In the rest, crude crafts provide the only means of livelihood.

Twenty-five dollars a month is considered a good salary. There are 15 million unemployed, and many who can find work are limited by a caste system to the most menial tasks. Centuries of custom and Hindu training have produced a populace which accepts its plight as a penance to be served before being reborn into a better life.

After 16½ years of independence, India has progressed little except in an expanding population. Its population continues to grow at the rate of 2.5 per cent a year, despite years of a government birth control program. More than 32 million additional mouths to feed have been added since 1961.

No longer does India pretend to play a role in world politics — she is too preoccupied with her own problems. Foremost is the provision of employment for an expanding population in an already overcrowded country. Prime Minister Nehru's infatuation with socialism has produced an inefficient industrial base almost void of dynamic growth potential.

Obviously, India's flirtation with a state-controlled economy has not produced results. No new direction is likely as long as Nehru remains in office, but the ailing leader may not guide the ship of state much longer.

India is approaching an important crossroads. No identifiable heir to the Nehru mantle has been groomed for the job. Thus, there is no certainty the Nehru policies will outlast the man. Junior leaders may recognize the failures of the past and demand a new direction for the future.

Or they may find it too difficult to overcome the traditions of stagnation, hopeless poverty and oppression by choice.

'Rooster-Pecked' Wife Defined

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Just as many men today are henpecked so some wives are dominated by their husbands.

They are, so to speak, "rooster-pecked."

While this flies into the face of the comfortable feminine theory that this has become a world of women, run by women, for women, it is nevertheless inescapably true.

Here and there landmark men still survive who are able to assert their authority over women — and I am not speaking merely of male hairdressers. I mean husbands who are able to dominate their wives, usually without the ladies in question realizing it.

It takes a great deal of Machiavellian cunning for a man to remain master in his own split-level castle in these times, but it can be done — and it is being done.

How can a wife tell if she is "rooster-pecked?" Well, her clever mate probably has outwitted her in the battle of matrimonial bossdom if —

He insists that she handle all the money in the family, then, when the household budget gets out of balance, instead of upbraiding her he turns upon her a face of insufferable forgiveness.

Although she is mistress of the purse, somehow he winds up at the end of the year with more new clothes than she does.

He's the one who takes the kids to the circus, but she's the one who spansks them when they need it.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States came close to balancing its books with the rest of the world in the first three months of 1964 for the first time in seven years.

But the outlook for the rest of the year is that U.S. payments will soon slip back into the red. They should do better than last year's $3.3-billion deficit, but still be large enough to be troublesome.

There are several reasons why the first quarter's performance may be more of a fluke than the guarantee of an end to the nagging problem.

Still, the early reports that the first quarter saw the return of dollars offset by the return from abroad eases some of the pressure or higher interest rates. It encourages those seeking to increase U. S. exports further and it casts a different light on the efforts of U.S. representatives trying for tariff concessions from other nations.

The apparent balance also lifts quite a weight from the shoulder of U.S. monetary authorities who have been battling to reassure the rest of the world about the strength of the Yankee dollar, and to discourage others from turning in surplus dollars for our gold.

A balance of payments deficit occurs when U.S. spending, lending and aid gives foreigners more dollars than they return here for our exports, or as yields on our investments.

In the old days the first sign of spring within the house was the dismantling of the parlor stove. Today's householder just shuts off the electric blanket.

Shakespeare's works continue to be among the most popular books, say librarians. Maybe folk are just curious to find out whether or not Bill really wrote all the stuff for which he's always being quoted.

The saddest sound on television these days, complains the man at the next desk, is the insane cackle of all that canned laughter, dubbed into many filmed TV comic programs.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

DAVID OGILVY, one of the big men in advertising today, tells of a time when Max Hart, the men's clothing tycoon, summoned his advertising manager to complain that he was using too much copy in his new campaign. The ad manager disagreed violently. "Furthermore," he proposed, "I'll bet you ten dollars I can write a whole newspaper page of solid type and you'll read every word of it." Hart took the bet. "I won't have to write a line to prove my point," the ad manager then declared. "I'll only tell you the headline: 'This page is all about Max Hart.'"

Philadelphia merchant prince John Wanamaker was a fervent believer in advertising, but admitted that he didn't always know what line to take to lure buyers to his store. "Half the money I spend in advertising I know is wasted," he told an interviewer once, "but the trouble is I don't know which half."

The vice-president of an electronics firm had to excuse himself in the middle of an important meeting recently. "I hate to leave," he explained to his sympathetic fellow-directors, "but my mother-in-law is arriving on the five o' clock broom."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

Dizziness is one of the most frequent complaints brought to the attention of doctors.

Unfortunately, dizziness is often haphazardly used to describe headaches, faintness, disturbances of vision and even tenderness of the scalp.

Dizziness actually means a sensation of movement of the body in relationship to its surroundings. Sometimes the feeling of dizziness or "vertigo" may give patients the impression that they are standing still and that objects are rotating around them. At other times, they may feel that objects are standing still and their bodies are whirling in circles.

Although these sensations are very distressing, in most instances they do not represent illnesses of sufficient severity to warrant the fears they induce.

All dizziness, however, must be investigated for its possible causes, especially in the elderly.

Once the cause is definitely determined, effective treatment automatically follows. High blood pressure, arteriosclerosis, Meniere's disease and other inner ear disturbances can be benefited by drugs, dietary regimes, limitation of fluids and salt intake, and by avoiding rapid changes of position.

Meniere's disease deserves an additional comment. This condition of dizziness, which combines with noise in the head (tinnitus) and sometimes deafness, is a very specific disease entity. Unfortunately, Meniere's disease has become a catch-all category for almost every kind of true or imagined dizziness.

The unsteadiness and imbalance associated with dizziness provoke tremendous feelings of fear and anxiety, especially in the older person. Fear of falling and loss of control in traffic, for example, severely limit the activities of patients who have occasional episodes of dizziness.

They need a tremendous amount of assurance and reassurance. This is one of the most important ingredients in the total treatment of dizziness.

The brisk, invigorating days of early spring are beginning their call of the wild for the outdoor exercise enthusiasts.

After a winter of hibernation and inactivity, during which most exercise was limited to trips between the television set and the refrigerator, slow body conditioning is imperative.

Two Choices at Hand

By John Chamberlain

The one good thing about Senator Fulbright's recent speech on foreign policy was its insistence that this country must break with the rigid formulas of the nineteen fifties. But there are two possible choices in this business of breaking. One, advocated by Fulbright himself, would be to soften our demands upon Khrushchev and Castro. The other would be to move swiftly toward maximum exploitation of Khrushchev's current troubles, which are indeed so terrifying to the Kremlin that a detente very much to the advantage of the West is possible.

In the present situation, Pope Paul VI has sensed the opportunity when Fulbright has ingloriously missed it. The Vatican's stiffening attitude has not only been signalled in speeches. It has also been expressed in the advice that has gone from Rome to Cardinal Mindszenty, the Primate of Hungary who is a virtual prisoner inside the walls of the American Legation in Budapest.

Just prior to Khrushchev's visit to Budapest the Kadar government of Hungary entertained great hopes of ridding itself of the thorny presence of Cardinal Mindszenty. The Cardinal has always refused to leave the American Legation in Budapest for Rome unless certain conditions are met. Number One is that he be allowed to return, at least for a brief period, to his ecclesiastical seat of Esztergom. Condition Number Two is that he be allowed to name his successor at Esztergom before going on to Rome to occupy a "higher" ecclesiastical post. Three is that he be rehabilitated, not amnestied. (To accept an amnesty, in his opinion, would be to admit treasonable activity.) Four is that the Catholic, the Protestant and the Jewish seminaries in Hungary be permitted to select their students without supervision of the political state. And Number Five is that the five bishoprics presently standing vacant shall be filled with the Cardinal's own choices, not by "government" men.

The Kadar government has apparently seen fit to give in on a couple of the points at issue. Cardinal Mindszenty would be allowed to return to Esztergom for an interval before accepting the Vatican's offer of a place in Rome, and the point about rehabilitation as against amnesty would be granted. But the government was still boggling at last reports over the replacement of bishops. It was disposed to give two of the vacated bishoprics to Cardinal Mindszenty men. The rest it insisted on reserving for itself. And it still insisted on political surveillance of the seminaries.

It was at this point in the Mindszenty-Kadar stand-off that the Papal Undersecretary for Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs, Augustino Casaroli, conveyed Pope Paul VI's message to Cardinal Mindszenty. "You are on your own," said the Pope, "nobody will try to influence you."

So the matter rests. But Cardinal Mindszenty, "on his own," is understood to be upping his own conditions. He is refusing specifically to endorse Bishop Endre Hamvas, the government's own candidate to succeed him at Esztergom. And he will not quit Budapest unless he is the "last political" to be released. Being "last" would involve a prior amnesty for thousands of Hungarians who are still in prison in Hungary or in exile in Soviet Russia for participating in the 1956 Revolution. Even if Kadar were disposed to grant this, the matter would first have to be cleared with Khrushchev, who, presumably, would think it might create too dangerous a precedent.

The importance of the Vatican's refusal to put any pressure on Cardinal Mindszenty should not be lost on the White House in Washington, where Catholic opinion must be respected as a condition that could affect the vote in November. But the religious aspect should be considered less important to President Lyndon Johnson than the common sense aspect of Pope Paul VI's policy. Khrushchev, in facing up to the consequences of schism with Red China, has an agricultural crisis on his hands that will take years to settle. The Pope knows, as Senator Fulbright does not know, that the bargaining climate favors the West.

THE DEPENDABLES: SUCCESS CARS OF '64

We have designs to get you in our power

Our engineers are a wily group of guys who spend most of their time dreaming up ways to win your approval. Take the Dodge Polara 500. You'd be hard-pressed to find a car that's got more going for you. Deeply-padded, contour-formed bucket seats. All-vinyl upholstery. Silt-to-silt carpeting. Padded dash. Center console. And lots of other trimmings. But that's only the half of it.

Perhaps our approach to power will further illustrate the point.

With the Polara 500 you aren't baked in on a certain engine. You can choose from a standard 318 cu. in. V8 up to a street-version of our wallowing, all-out 426 cu. in. Ramcharger V8. Compromise? Nope. We just feel that a freedom of choice is the surest road to your approval.

That's our way of doing business—giving you lots of car and lots of satisfaction at a price that's hard to quarrel with.

Your Dodge Dealer will be glad to demonstrate the point.

MacArthur Was a Strong Man Who Stirred Strong Feelings

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second of a four-part series on Gen. Douglas MacArthur by Relman Morin, Pulitzer Prize-winner. It describes MacArthur the man, what "The Old Man" was like.

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Writer
Gen. Douglas MacArthur was a strong man and he stirred strong feelings, pro and con, about himself.

"Very few people really know Douglas MacArthur," wrote Gen. George C. Kenney, his Air Force commander in the Pacific war. "Those who do, or think

IN A VEILED attack on Red China, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev tells factory workers in Budapest that "There are some in the world who, while calling themselves Communists . . . deny the necessity of striving for a better life. they do, either admire him or dislike him."

MacArthur's close associates were fiercely loyal, intensely partisan. Their affection for MacArthur often bordered on idolatry. They may have disagreed with him in private. But outside the star chamber, they would tolerate no criticism of "The Old Man."

His critics were equally positive.

They called him a megalomaniac and a show-off. They said he was consumed with ambition and aiming at nothing less than the office of president of the United States. They seldom questioned his genius as a soldier. But they seriously questioned some of his political judgments. Toward the end of his career, the feeling about him in Washington was a mixture of worry, bewilderment and fury.

About the only neutrals were newsmen who generally tend to look at the great and near-great with a slightly sardonic eye.

Sitting in a room with MacArthur, this is what you saw—

Even when he was 70, he was still a handsome man. He looked much younger. Little or no gray streaked his jet black hair. He had a chiseled profile, with a high forehead, a large aquiline nose and a square, firm chin. His eyes were large and dark. On the battlefield, or pondering a problem, he often squinted until they became slits.

In his youth, he had been an athlete and all his life he walked with a smooth, swinging stride. He held himself erect and seemed taller than he was.

Sometimes, in his office, he would sit with one leg dangling over the arm of a chair as he talked. But when he became unusually interested in the discussion, he often would pace the floor, emphasizing his points by jabbing the air with the stem of a cornucop pipe.

A tray of smoked-out cornucops usually was near his desk. Less frequently, he smoked cigars and cigarettes.

His voice was deep and in making a public speech he would pitch it to an even lower key. Then he often sounded like the old-fashioned, voice-of-doom orator. He was more effective in a small room than on the public platform.

MacArthur had an astonishing command of language. He talked fluently, seldom stumbling or pausing to reach for a word. He would analyze a complicated political or military situation in clear, simple language, moving logically from point to point as though he were reading.

However, not all his statements were couched in simple language.

For example, when his name was advanced as a possible candidate for president, MacArthur said he would not actively seek the nomination.

Then he added: "I would be recreant to all my concepts of good citizenship were I to shrink, because of the hazards and responsibilities involved, from accepting any public duty to which I might be called by the American people."

Religious references appeared frequently in his wartime communications and pronouncements. Of the troops lost in the defense of Bataan, he said:

"To the weeping mothers of its dead, I only say that the sacrifice and halo of Jesus of Nazareth has descended upon their sons and that God will take them unto Himself."

The famous broadcast to the Filipinos when MacArthur set foot on Philippine soil for the first time said:

"I have returned. By the grace of Almighty God, our forces stand again on Philippine soil."

One of MacArthur's confidantes, Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, said MacArthur was a deeply religious man, a practicing Episcopalian.

MacArthur worked every Sunday and did not attend church, but Whitney wrote:

"Eight a.m. was the time for family prayers. They were led by Mrs. Phyllis Gibbons. She conducted the service from the Anglican book of common prayer, with MacArthur reading the Bible passage."

On reaching his office in the morning, Whitney reported, MacArthur first read the messages that had come from the United States during the night—and the first of these invariably were those bringing baseball or football scores!

Whitney said the former head football coach at West Point, Earl Blaik, wrote MacArthur regularly about the team and frequently consulted him about tactics. MacArthur remarked to Whitney on one occasion:

"I see Army started its second string backs yesterday. That's good generalship."

Of all the many facets of MacArthur's extraordinary personality, one of the most impressive was his marble calm.

Apparently it never cracked. For example, during the first months of the Korean War, news from the front was consistently gloomy. American and South Korean troops kept falling back until only a tiny corner of southeastern Korea still was in non-Communist hands, the Pusan perimeter.

Months before that, however, MacArthur coolly announced that the Reds had lost their opportunity to win the war. He spoke in a quiet, matter-of-fact manner.

"Maybe the Old Man knows what he's talking about," said a correspondent. "But it looks as though he's 180 degrees off the beam this time."

Yet the perimeter held. Then, with the Inchon landings in September, the tide turned. The war in fact was won until the Chinese Reds intervened. Even that news seemed to leave MacArthur unmoved.

The thunderbolt from Washington—when President Harry S. Truman fired MacArthur—came without warning. Whitney said MacArthur was having a luncheon party. The announcement was whispered to him privately. He said MacArthur's face froze and the general quietly remarked to his wife: "Jeannie, we're going home."

Next: "Home by Christmas" and dashed hopes.

Ohio Military Flag Preservation Urged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Those military flags and guidons displayed in the Statehouse rotunda, although in varying stages of deterioration, may be rescued from total decomposition.

The Ohio National Guard Association is offering to restore and preserve them before they are completely gone.

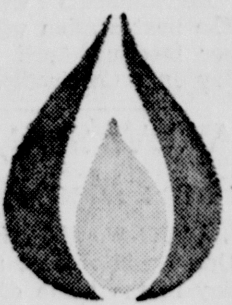

The offer came in a resolution adopted by the association when it convened here over the weekend.

The Rev. Paul Wachs was speaker when the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church met in the church.

Mrs. J. Boyd Stout, president, conducted the business meeting. Mrs. Eugene Petty used as the theme for devotions "The Church."

Rev. Wachs spoke on the topic, "The General Conference of the Methodist Church." His text was "The Methodist Discipline." He talked of the early history of the church and explained some of the things which will occur at the General Conference to be held April 26 through May 7 in Pittsburgh, Pa. Major topics to be discussed at the conference include desegregation, merger with the EUB Church, revision of the Methodist hymnal and the change in the organization of the mission boards for the church and the WSCS.

Several musical selections were presented by the Children's Choir from the Community Mission. They wore new blue choir robes which several women of the Methodist Church helped make.

The quarterly Conference will be held 7:30 p. m. April 14. The May Fellowship dinner is scheduled May 6 with daughters and other guests invited. Each Circle will provide an assigned portion of the planned meal with members of the Men's Club serving the food.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Perennial Globe-Trotter!

DEAR ABBY: My husband announced last November that he needed a rest, so he went to New York to visit his sister. After being gone two months, he sent me a post card from Paris saying he got the "urge" to go abroad. I have been getting his post cards from all over Europe with no word of how to contact him. What, if I, or one of the children, should become seriously ill, or die? Our children are away at boarding school, thank heavens, so they are spared the humiliation. I feel like a fool when people ask me where my husband is. He obviously cares nothing for me or he never could have done such a thing. I am well provided for, but money isn't everything. We've been married 19 years and I am seriously considering asking my lawyer to file for a divorce. What would you do in my place?

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: I'd get in touch with my lawyer immediately and attempt to locate my globe-trotting husband. He could be sick—or just sick of you. In any case, it's time he got home. Do nothing about a divorce at this distance.

DEAR ABBY: I believe that my mother-in-law is one in a million. Judging from most of your letters about mothers-in-law, I am lucky. We get along wonderful and even think and do things alike. When I wanted to dry out a cowhide, she helped me take it up and nail it to my garage roof, salt it down and trim it off. Now I ask you, how many mothers-in-law would go through that for a daughter-in-law? Sincerely,

MRS. C.G.

Italian Reds Opposed to Big Showdown

ROME (AP)—The big Italian Communist party has come out against Soviet Premier Khrushchev's call for a showdown meeting on the Soviet-Chinese struggle, warning that it might cause a formal split in the international Red movement.

The Italian Communists made plain, however, that they are against Peking and might change their position depending on developments.

The statement, published in the Communist organ L'Unita, noted that the party had opposed a world showdown meeting all along and had suggested that individual Communist parties should thresh out differences in bilateral talks.

The renewed opposition from the largest Communist party in the West underscored reports from Budapest that Khrushchev is receiving lukewarm support from some allies in his battle with the Red Chinese.

Khrushchev had predicted that his call last week for a showdown session would rally all Communists. So far only the Hungarian and Bulgarian parties have pledged him all-out support.

Many fence-sitting Communist parties outside the Soviet orbit are apprehensive over the prospect of an open break between the two Communist giants. They hesitate to throw in their lot with the Kremlin at this uncertain stage.

Khrushchev launched a new attack on the Red Chinese Sunday, accusing them of trying to incite the Soviet people against him.

"For this purpose," he told a crowd of about 80,000 in the Hungarian steel city of Miskolc, "they invented accusations against me.

"But I am not ashamed of these charges. I am proud of them. They bring me only pride and honor."

The Chinese accused Khrushchev last week of being "the greatest capitulationist of all time," a tool of the United States and too concerned with raising Soviet living standards.

Khrushchev retorted that after the deprivations of Stalin's time, he was helping the Soviet people "to begin to live like human beings."

"If our people begin to be better dressed, to have better shoes, to be better fed, to have better houses, to increase their incomes toward satisfaction of their needs and cultural requirements, that is, to begin to live like human beings, that is the rebirth," he said.

3 Area Music Students Rank High at Capital

Lorna Poling, an eighth grade student at Saltcreek, Brenda Mills, who is in the seventh grade at Pickaway and Donna Stephens who is an eighth grade student in Circleville, each received a "one" rating on Saturday at the Ohio Music Education Junior High School auditions at Capital University.

Lorna Competed in the vocal area, singing Grieg's "A Swan". She is a private student of Dr. C. Thomas Barr of Ohio State University who was her accompanist.

Brenda and Donna played flute solos with their teacher, Robert Petty serving as their accompanist. Their selections were "A Peasant Dance" by Weber and "Menuett" by Kuhlau.

Plans for Atwater PTA Family Night Complete

Final plans have been made for the annual Atwater PTA Family Fun Night scheduled 5-9 p. m. April 24.

Completion of committee assignments and other final preparations were made during a meeting with the project chairman, Mrs. Don Lyon, and co-chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Rogers.

Highlight of the PTA carnival will be a "big top supper" and the menu will include barbecued ham, sloppy joes, cheese sandwiches, baked beans, cole slaw, coffee and milk.

Detailed information sheets are being distributed at the school to students.

Proceeds from the event will go towards the PTA project treasury.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather:

Widely scattered thunderstorms continued in Ohio over night. However, in most communities, dry weather prevailed.

Temperatures were quite mild, registering mostly in the 50s near daybreak today. They included Cincinnati 57, Marietta 54, Zanesville 55 and Cleveland and Columbus 52.

Frequent showers and thunderstorms were expected to erupt ahead of a cold front forecast to sweep eastward across Ohio today. Temperatures were expected to plunge considerably after passage of the cold front, reaching the 30s by early Wednesday morning.

A few showers are likely tonight in the colder air, followed by dry and much cooler weather Wednesday.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur was not a simple man. He was romantic, but tough; eloquent, but sentimental; charming, but austere; but suspicious.

He felt some people, besides Communists, were his enemies conspiring against him. Because he so often wished his views to prevail, he was some times hard to get along with.

One writer, Richard Rovere, said MacArthur was a "true believer in himself" and found it "necessary to ascribe his disappointments . . . to base intrigues."

Although Gen. John J. Pershing, MacArthur's top commander in World War I, decorated him, the New York Times says Pershing told him: "Young man, I do not like your attitude."

Arthur Schlesinger Jr., in his history of the New Deal, says President Franklin D. Roosevelt thought MacArthur dangerous. If so, he nevertheless made him his chief of staff, commander in the Pacific, and gave him the Medal of Honor.

The Washington Post's military editor, John G. Norris, reports that when Maj. Dwight D. Eisenhower served under MacArthur in the Philippines in 1935 they had differences of opinion and Eisenhower returned home.

President Harry S. Truman dismissed MacArthur from his Korean command in 1951 for what he considered insubordination by publicly airing his views on how to win the war, contrary to Truman's orders and policies. The final straw was when MacArthur wrote to a congressman.

But Norris points out MacArthur fought general headquarters when he was a hero of World War I in Europe. When Pershing crossed him, Norris says, word "was gotten back to interested congressmen and Gen. Pershing's plans were killed."

When the second volume of Truman's memoirs appeared in 1956, explaining why he fired MacArthur, the general said the former president "did violence to the truth" and was "vengeful."

But MacArthur saw intrigue in his dismissal. He said it happened after he had demanded prosecution of a spy ring which was getting top secret military plans sent to Washington from his Korean command.

He said he thought Gen. George C. Marshall, then secretary of defense, and Gen. Omar Bradley, then chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, were personally hostile to me" and that the enmity went back some time.

Yet, Truman's record of his conversations with MacArthur at Wake Island six months before his dismissal quotes the general as saying: "No commander in the history of war ever had more complete and adequate support from all agencies in Washington than I have."

But it was Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, MacArthur's aide and confidant for more than 20 years, who did the biggest job of rounding up the various intrigues supposedly working against the general.

Whitney, who was with MacArthur when he died last Sunday, put together a 547-page justification of what MacArthur did or didn't do in a book called: "MacArthur: His Rendezvous With History."

He said "Communists and their dupes" found "an ally in the 'Europe-first clique in the War and State Departments at the outbreak of World War II' in an attempt to discredit the

Fort Recovery Crude Oil Pipeline Breaks

CELINA, Ohio (AP)—Thousands of gallons of crude oil were flowing among the waters of the Wabash River today, result of a pipeline break near Fort Recovery.

The sheriff's office said repairs to the leak in a 10-inch Gulf Oil Co. line might not be finished until today. An officer said it was believed the leak was in a part of the pipe under the river.

Brown Details View on Rights

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, candidate for the Republican U.S. senatorial nomination, pinpointed his opposition today to portions of the civil rights bill pending in Congress.

He released a "position paper" covering seven titles of the bill and chided his May 5 primary opponent, Congressman-at-large Robert Taft Jr., for supporting the measure in its present form.

"In this case," Brown said, "the end does not justify many of the means which the draftsmen of the bill would impose on America."

Brown asserted that sections of the House-approved measure went counter to his belief that "our federal union must be preserved; that the government must operate within constitutional limits and that the states are essential, not only to an active and effective government, but to the preservation of American liberty."

Brown gave this analysis of portions of the bill:

Title I
This title adds to and amends legislation which I favor. But . . . the bill departs from its stated purpose and places federal agents in charge of state election machinery.

It states that no person shall be denied the right to vote because of any immaterial error or omission in registering, applying for his ballot, etc. What is material?

Depending entirely on the attorney general's idea of what is material, this provision could be used to nullify extensive portions of the election laws of this and other states. . . .

Title II
Ohio has an adequate public accommodations law which I support. . . .

What troubles me is this title's definition (in the civil rights bill) of what this perfectly valid purpose pertains to. The law would cover lodging establishments wherever situated with more than five rooms. . . . About the only establishment not placed under the management of the U.S. attorney general are bars and priv-

Solon Forces Sesqui Issue, Move Fails

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, forced a roll call on the issue but failed to keep the House Monday from authorizing $13,553 to reimburse the commission that conducted Ohio's Battle of Lake Erie sesquicentennial celebration last year.

A roll call hadn't been expected on the bill, but Gross—a consistent foe of what he regards as excessive Federal spending—attacked the expenditure and demanded the roll call.

The bill pass, 233 - 39, and moved to the Senate, which had authorized $25,000 for the commission. The House Judiciary Committee trimmed it to the $13,553 figure.

When Congress set up the Ohio commission for the observance at the Perry Victory Monument on South Bass Island, it provided that all commission funds would come from public contributions. But the commission was able to collect only a few thousand dollars.

The commission then spent money of its own and proceeded with the celebration. The new bill was introduced to reimburse the commission members.

Said Gross: "I don't like to be told one year on the floor of the House that a bill will not cost any money—I don't care whether it's 15 cents of $15 or $1,500—and then with the greatest of ease have someone here a year or so later and tell us it's going to cost $13,553, or whatever it is."

te clubs, and even here there is room for debate. . . .

I feel Section 204 (A) which states "whenever . . . there are reasonable grounds to believe that any person is about to engage in any act or practice prohibited by Section 203, a civil action for preventive relief . . . may be instituted . . ." should be stricken from the bill.

This is thought control pure and simple and totally unworkable.

Title V
This section of the bill would make permanent a heretofore temporary commission. The Civil Rights Commission has made what appears to be a genuine effort in many areas to settle instances of discrimination and calm antagonisms growing out of racial disputes.

This is one of the few departments of government over which the Congress still has permanent control, which may very well account for the commission's good performance, and I favor retaining congressional control.

Title VI
I certainly cannot quarrel with the proposition that no person should be denied the benefits of federal financial assistance on account of race, color or national origin. However, none of the key words in this section is defined.

In terms of military contracts alone, we deal here with the life or death power over the existence of whole areas of this country. We are talking about the survival of banks and savings and loan associations, of the well being of laborers, home owners, farmers and businessmen, of subsistence for blind people, disabled persons and widows.

There are simply no adequate safeguards upon the drastic grant of power that would be vested in the executive branch of the government by this title.

Title VII
My concern over this title rests in the fact that it entails a sweeping grant of power to the federal executive.

The bill sets up an immensely expansive bureaucracy, operating under a vague law, which will have the authority to, among other things, (a) regulate the hiring practices of private businesses, (b), gauge employee efficiency and skill, (c) deal with promotions and wage increases, (d) regulate all aspects of union membership and government.

Congress would be downright derelict if this were passed into law in its present form.

Title VIII
This title directs the (Commerce) Department to engage in what seems to be a curious reversal of policy in that it requires reports to show the race, people who are registered to vote and who have voted. . . . We do not ask people their race when they register or vote. . . . We never thought it was any of our business. . . .

Title X
This adds to the legion of already established boards. . . . By actual count there are some 179 community relations commissions laboring in this field. . . .

It is our strong feeling that this new group will immediately intrude itself into the controversy involving so-called "de facto segregation" in the public schools.

To me at least, the intrusion of the federal government into the responsibilities of our local school boards is anathema.

"I have found much controversy surrounding the bill but little understanding," Brown said in concluding his summary. "I hope in making this statement I have contributed to the latter rather than further inflame the former."

Optimism Seen in Alaska Rubble

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Ten days after one of history's worst recorded earthquakes smashed this beautiful city on Cook Inlet, a visitor seeing it for the first time might exclaim:

"Why this isn't so bad. The reports were exaggerated."

In the aftermath, a light snow veiled—even if it did not conceal—the rubble shoved back from the streets.

The snow fell lightly on park-clad troops standing guard around the hardest-hit areas on Fourth Avenue and at Turnagain Bluff where luxury homes slid into the sea.

But it could not cover the stark realism of the J.C. Penney Co.'s new store, which stands cold and silent, a huge wall blasted away as if by a bomb.

It could not hide huge apartment and office buildings that stand empty, their occupants listed among the "quake refugees."

There is optimism here, combined with a fantastic display of the cooperation and brotherliness for which Alaskans long have been noted.

But there is also real concern for the future of Anchorage, Valdez, Seward and other quake damaged areas.

The stimulating excitement which sustained the 88,000 residents of this area in the first days after the quake has passed.

Today they face the cold, hard fact that they sustained a major disaster.

Anchorage stood up with great courage in its hour of trial.

The city moved swiftly to restore services. Electricity for lights and heating was back amazingly fast.

Telephone service, too, was restored, but for days facilities were overtaxed by frantic relatives trying to call in and Anchorage residents trying to call out to reassure them.

Water was soon available for washing. But it took time to clear it for drinking in all areas of the city. Hundreds of Anchorage men, women and children have felt the sting of the antityphoid needle.

Just as quickly as guards were removed from the major damage areas, storekeepers moved in, swept out glass and debris and, if they could, opened up again for Business. If they could not stay in the same location, they sought others and were delighted if they could find a vacant storehouse in which to set up shop.

Of great importance and significance is the fact there has been no mass exodus from Anchorage.

Many coral-reef fishes change colors at night, presumably to make themselves hard to see. Tiny pigment cells expand or contract to reveal or hide color.

Circleville Area Chamber Provides Many Services for This Community

Circleville's Area Chamber of Commerce, like other chambers throughout the country, provides many services along with its goal of promoting community progress.

With reference to "National Chamber of Commerce Week" which is now being observed countrywide, the Circleville organization today outlined numerous service functions conducted on the local level. The Chamber office, located at 127½ E. Main St., serves as a nerve center for obtaining of area business information.

The office, under the capable direction of Mrs. E. R. Bennett, executive secretary, handles a wide assortment of duties. A phone call or visit to her headquarters usually results in acquisition of the information desired.

A few of the services offered include a reference library of city directories for 48 Ohio communities. Telephone directories for nearby cities also are available.

ADDITIONAL data on hand are up-to-date industrial directories listing local industries, products manufactured, names of plant managers and approximate number of employees; "Meet Circleville" brochures that include a city map; "Tradition of the Circle" pamphlets that describe the history of Circleville; and a reference list of local organizations that totals more than 244.

The Chamber office also reviews Better Business Bureau complaints; furnishes publicity for news media salutes to Circleville; publishes a monthly newsletter which is sent to all members; cooperates with the welcome Wagon with regard to newcomers to the community; and serves as an information center — for all kinds of questions.

Recent functions under Chamber sponsorship included an Action Course on Practical Politics, directed by G. Ninde Lawson. Certificates of completion were presented to William L. Cook, Dan Crabtree, Emma M. Curlett, Dale F. DeLong, Mary Louise Heine, George R. Hritz, Richard C. Huggins, Fiske D. O'Hara, Laurence Priest, K. Edwin Richardson, Richard C. Shaw, Charles E. Wellman, Etha Mae Wolford and Geraldine Bennett.

Panel guests at the final session of the course were Frank Marion, chairman of the Democratic Central Committee; Edgar M. Webb, chairman of the Republican Executive Committee; Robert H. Huffer, vice chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee; and D. E. McDonald, vice chairman of the Republican Executive Committee.

The Public Affairs committee completed a "Get Out the Vote" campaign in an effort to reach as many unregistered potential voters as possible. They were urged to register in order to vote in this year's elections.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—More than 60 firemen were called early today to fight a blaze that wrecked the W. T. Grant Co. store in the Swayne Field shopping center near downtown Toledo. No injuries were reported. Damage was estimated at $350,000.

Bank Vice President To Face Grand Jury

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—A vice president of the First National Bank of Akron is awaiting action of the federal grand jury at Cleveland on a charge of making a false entry in the bank records.

Rupert Garfield Minns Jr., 41, manager of the bank's Hudson branch, was arrested by FIB agents at his home in Peninsula Monday.

NERVE CENTER — Mrs. E. R. (Jerry) Bennett, Area Chamber of Commerce secretary, devotes many hours of her work day to answering telephone questions and providing helpful business information to office visitors. She is a vital cog in coordinating various other Chamber functions. Her office is at 127½ E. Main St.

The task of sifting and contacting unregistered voters in the community was accomplished by enlisting the aid of nearly 100 women from a dozen local women's clubs. Through their efforts, more than 2,000 people in Circleville and the surrounding area were contacted by phone and urged to register.

***

LARGE SIGNS were posted in the downtown area reminding potential voters of the March 25 deadline. Daily reminders were printed on the front page of The Herald.

This committee, working in close cooperation with the Board of Elections, The Herald and other interested groups, helped to add more than 1,700 names to the list of registered voters.

Projects for the immediate future include "A Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up" campaign that will be publicized, with particular emphasis on the week of May 3-10. An advisory committee will be available to help with suggestions on building color remodeling problems.

The Welcome and Membership committee will be active during Chamber of Commerce week, greeting newcomers to Circleville business. Chairman Jack Clifton and his committee, Dave Goldschmidt, Lincoln Mader and David Yates, will also contact members whose dues are not up to date.

Chairman Charles Schieffer and the Retail Merchants committee are currently meeting with Circleville High School administrators and representatives of the State Department of Education concerning a program of Distributive Education. If it is included in the curriculum, this course of study will enable senior students to obtain practical experience in the business world by working in the afternoons while attending school in the mornings. A minimum of 20 students and 20 participating businessmen will be necessary to inaugurate the program.

The Area Development committee, chairmaned by Donald Colegrove, is in the process of compiling detailed information on available plant sites and existing buildings in this area. This panel will have specific reports completed by April 29, to be included in a brochure for use in contacting industrial prospects.

The Congressional Action committee under chairman Fiske O'Hara is holding regular meetings to evaluate three topics of current legislation: civil rights, double time for overtime and Medicare. Advisory reports will be published from time to time, urging citizens of Circleville to voice their opinions to Washington.

Sweden Books Its Trial For Soviet Master Spy

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Col. Stig Wennerstrom goes on trial Saturday as a master spy accused of betraying Sweden's top defense secrets to the Soviet Union over a 15-year period.

A jury of nine, including five women, will decide his fate.

The prosecution calls him Sweden's most dangerous spy in modern times.

It says he has confessed he sold Sweden's top defense secrets to the Soviets from 1948 until his arrest last June. He knew a lot about the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's defenses and weapons and presumably passed this on to Moscow but will be tried only for betrayal of Sweden.

The story that will unfold includes attendance at a Soviet spy school in Moscow while he served as Swedish air attaché there; a secret room in his lavish villa where he received radioed instructions from the Russians; and exchanges of microfilm rolls during handshakes with Russians at diplomatic receptions in Stockholm.

Wennerstrom moved from one key position to another. Each gave him access to all the information on Sweden's defense plans and its defense forces — and to some on NATO — that he wanted to see.

Although neutral Sweden is not a member of NATO he visited NATO military installations. He was friendly with many top Western diplomats here. From 1952 to 1957 he served as Swedish air attaché in Washington. The United States honored him with its Legion of Merit when he left.

Interrogators took a month to break down Wennerstrom's pleas of innocence. They say he confessed only when confronted with irrefutable evidence, including films of classified information which Wennerstrom's maid had found in his villa.

The trial is expected to last four weeks. The maximum sentence that he can draw is life imprisonment.

The 57-year-old colonel is confined in a special cell in Stockholm's police headquarters. He is under 24-hour watch by alternating teams of two guards in an adjacent room. The lights never are turned out in his cell.

He eats with a spoon. He is not permitted to use a knife or fork for fear of a suicide attempt. He is not allowed a belt or suspenders for the same reason.

He exercises on a rooftop that is covered by a net to prevent anything being thrown to him from adjoining buildings.

Hollywood Tribal Custom Holding Back Hugh O'Brian

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The problem of being a movie star, observes Hugh O'Brian, is rising to the next plateau.

O'Brian, one of the sage observers of local tribal customs, is also one of the ablest practitioners of the self-selling art. He divulged some of the tricks of the game before returning to the Mexican locations of "Love Has Many Faces."

The actor had a fortnight's vacation because the illness of costar Lana Turner suspended production. Shooting was three-quarters finished, mostly on the Acapulco location, and now the rest will be filmed in a Mexico City studio.

"Love Has Many Faces" is only Hugh's second movie since he quit the "Wyatt Earp" television series three years ago.

This, despite the fact that he is a highly serviceable leading man with an international name.

"The producers have had some resistance to putting the star of a television series into leading roles in important films," he explained.

He resisted taking roles in films he thought wouldn't further his career. He could afford to turn them down. As a result of his five Earp years and subsequent investments, he figures his worth at $2 million.

Movies are his goal, and his problem is getting into what he calls industry pictures. He explains that those are films that the movie trade talks about and sees. Until now his sole outing since the series was "Come Fly With Me," which he called a nonindustry picture — "nobody saw it."

Then he got down to his theory about plateaus.

"I'm in the same category as some other actors like Rod Taylor, George Peppard, Stephen Boyd, Cliff Robertson, Stuart Whitman and a few others," he said. "Out of this group, if the producers would only realize it, will come the Gregory Pecks and the John Waynes of tomorrow."

"But we're not in that status yet. That's on the next plateau. Getting up there is the problem. The only way we can do it is with good product, which producers are reluctant to give us."

Cincy Woman Is Tied To Forged Check Case

CINCINNATI (AP) — Federal authorities were holding Betty Jean Drye, 23, under $20,000 bond on charges of interstate transportation of stolen checks and forged or altered money orders.

E. D. Mason, head of the FBI at Cincinnati, said Miss Drye was arrested Monday in suburban Lincoln Heights. Mason said specific charges against her include driving another woman from Toledo, to Detroit to cash the checks and money orders. She also is accused of helping to cash checks drawn on the Hamilton (Ohio) Second National Bank in Columbia, S. C.

Data Show Profits Still On Increase

NEW YORK (AP)—Early reports on first-quarter profits point to figures still rising after a year that saw many records set.

And even more heartening to corporate executives is that the decline in profit margins has been reversed. But this gain barely brings the ratio of profits to sales, and of profits to assets, back to the level of 1959, and is minor when compared with the late 40s or early 50s, when good sales years really meant rewarding earnings.

The earnings now being reported in increasing numbers have added interest this year. They bear directly on labor's chances of boosting the size of wage-scale advances in upcoming negotiations. The amount of the yield on investment—affects the ardor with which enterprises will expand and take up the soaring earnings offer a clue to the strength of the pressures that may be building up for another marked rise in prices, such as accompanied the profitable years right after the war.

Most industrial groups made marked gains in 1963 over 1962.

Net income of 2,280 manufacturing companies tabulated by the First National City Bank jumped 10 per cent in 1963 above the take in 1962, that is, to $16.3 billion from $14.8 billion.

But the margin of profits on sales was 5.7 per cent, up only slightly from the 5.5 per cent of 1962. Still, it was back to the 1959 level after a discouraging dip. The margin will have to grow much faster in 1964 to get back to the level of 1955, when it was above 6 per cent. The peak postwar year of 1950, when the profit margin was nearer 8 per cent, now seems almost out of reach.

Profits figured as a return on the net worth of the corporations rose to 11.5 per cent in 1963, from 10.9 per cent in 1962. This also was back to the 1959 level after the intervening dip during the 1960 recession. But the prospects of this return on assets climbing back to the 1955 level of 15 per cent seem dim to many corporate finance officers. And the 1948 mark of 19 per cent looks far away indeed.

Profit reports this year are being complicated by greatly increased depreciation allowances by many companies, and these are carried on the books as costs before profits.

Tuscarawas Highway Auxiliary Is Honored

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—William E. Clinton, auxiliary lieutenant of the Ohio Highway Patrol in Tuscarawas County, has received a certificate of recognition from the patrol and its volunteer auxiliary.

Clinton was cited for his assistance in the arrest in January 1963 of Harry Grove and Alfred Conti in Uhrichsville. Grove was on the FBI list of ten most wanted men.

Final Registration Slated For Youth Baseball Program

Final registration sessions for the Circleville Youth Baseball program will be conducted 7 to 9 p. m. Friday and 9 a. m. to noon Saturday at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

A total of 320 boys between the ages of eight and 15 have already declared their intention of participating in the program, Roy Farmer Little League player agent announced.

However, Farmer pointed out that 140 boys who played last season and who are still eligible to participate this year have not yet registered.

"We have had a good turnout so far," Farmer stated, "with at least 75 new boys registered. It looks like we might have to expand the Mosquito League to 10 teams."

THE YOUTH baseball program official noted the slow registration of some of the boys who had been members of the program the previous year was an annual problem.

Candidates for the summer program must register every year they participate, he emphasized. First year registrants must bring a birth certificate as proof of age.

Farmer stated that Mosquito League rosters could be made up early next week.

For this reason, he urged all adults or parents willing to manage a team or assist in the management of a squad con-

Rain Clouds Big Tourney

Augusta Course Growing Soggy

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — With every drop of rain, the Augusta National Golf Course grew longer, and the field for the Masters got smaller.

"This course always favors the long hitter," said veteran Byron Nelson. "And with a soaking rain, it favors the man who hits the ball a long way in the air. That's Jack Nicklaus."

"The rain cuts the field of players with a good chance down to only four or five," said the even more veteran Gene Sarazen. "Nicklaus, and just a handful of others; Arnold Palmer, old Sam Snead, maybe. And among the youngsters, Rex Baxter and Jack Rule."

Nicklaus, the 24-year-old Golden Bear who last year was the youngest player ever to win the Masters, looked at the steady downpour Monday and admitted it didn't hurt chances to be the first player ever to repeat.

"This is just wonderful for me," he said.

Rain is expected to continue off and on through Wednesday, according to the Weather Bureau, although it is hoped the course will be fit for practice rounds today. It was closed before noon Monday.

The tournament opens Thursday, and it seems highly unlikely there will be enough sunshine to put any roll back into the lush fairways.

Nicklaus was asked if he thought a wet course would turn the tournament into a Nicklaus-Palmer battle.

"I certainly hope so," Nicklaus said, "because that would mean that I would be right up there. Arnold is just about ready to start playing his best golf. He's hitting the ball as far as I've ever seen him hit it."

Palmer, the Masters winner in 1958, 1960 and 1962, agreed that he is driving in the Nicklaus range. "I'm happy about my driving, and I feel my iron is a little better," he said.

"I've been playing pretty well, and I feel better coming into this tournament than I have for three or four years."

Youths who do not register this weekend may run the risk of not playing in the program this year, according to youth baseball officials.

The number of teams in the program will depend solely on the number of boys registered after Saturday.

Suggested player limits per team will be followed this year. Late registrants will be placed only as openings occur.

AL Prexy Sees 5-Team Race for 1964 Pennant

BOSTON (AP)—Chicago, Baltimore, Minnesota and Detroit will press the defending champion New York Yankees in a five-way American League pennant fight, President Joe Cronin believes.

His reasoning: All four show marked improvement while the Yankees, seeking their 14th flag in 16 years, have stood still.

The 64th campaign opens next

Reds Hurlers Look Good in Phillies Test

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Both Cincinnati Reds pitchers in Monday's game with Philadelphia looked just fine to Johnny Edwards, the Reds' man behind the plate.

The Reds won, 5-3, and this was what Edwards, who sat out the game, had to say about Johnny Tsitouris and Sammy Ellis:

"Johnny came through for us in the clutch last season. He has the stuff, plus the confidence now, to be a consistent winner."

"Sammy Ellis has a world of stuff. He should make it with us as a starter or middle-innings reliever."

The Phillies got to Tsitouris for seven hits in as many innings and hit safely off Ellis three times in the two innings he worked, but the outcome was never in doubt.

Pete Rose was the Reds' hitting star for the day. The young second baseman led off in the first with a long triple to center field and scored on Chico Ruiz's single. Bob Skinner also singled and both he and Ruiz scored as a gust of wind dropped Marty Keough's fly ball for a double.

Kralick Due For Test in Indian Game

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Jack Kralick, the Cleveland Indians' veteran left-hander sidelined two weeks with a strained back muscle, was scheduled to pitch against the Los Angeles Angels in the finale of a two-game series here today.

The Indians were held to three hits while losing, 7-1, Monday.

Jim Grant pitched the first six innings for the Tribe and was the loser. He faced two batters in the seventh but was relieved by Ted Abernathy after both batters hit safely.

Abernathy gave up two hits and one earned run while fanning three in the one inning he worked, and Gary Bell retired the Angels in order in the eighth.

Grant allowed a total of six hits and six runs but held the Angels to two runs and three hits in the first five innings. He walked four batters, two of them in the sixth inning.

Bo Belinsky gave up the Indians' hits—singles by John Romano, Larry Brown and Leon Wagner—in the six innings he worked.

Art Fowler, Bob Duliba and Bob Lee each pitched a successive hitless inning.

Teays Valley Baseball Slate Is Announced

Four Night Games Included on Viking Schedule This Year

The Teays Valley High School Baseball schedule has been announced by Russ Gregg, Viking coach.

Gregg has included four night games and a pair of twilight doubleheaders on the schedule this year.

When the Viking athletic field lights were installed they were positioned so the lights could be used for both baseball and football.

The first eight games of the season have been scheduled away.

THE INITIAL home contest will come April 28 when the Vikings host Groveport in a night game.

Six lettermen return to the Teays Valley baseball squad. They are Mitchell Clay, first base; John Rush, second base; Ron Wilkins, center field; Bob Roof, right field; Ken Rose catcher and Bob Kuhlwein. Seven newcomers are fighting for positions on the starting nine.

Prospective pitchers on the TV team are Len Calloway, a junior; Charles Griffey, Bill Dore, Nick Nance, Dave Cook, all sophomores and Mel Fridley, a senior.

The Vikings are competing on an independent basis this year. Here is the schedule:

April 7 at Groveport
April 9 at Columbus East
April 10 at Circleville
April 13 at Columbus West
April 14 at Mifflin
April 21 at Whitehall
April 22 at Chillicothe
April 24 at Liberty Union
April 28 Groveport (N)
May 1 District Tournament
May 12 Hamilton Twp., twilight doubleheader
May 14 at Hamilton Twp.
May 15 St. Charles, twilight doubleheader
May 18 Liberty Union (N)
May 19 Franklin Heights
May 20 Whitehall (N)
May 21 Mifflin (N)
May 25 Columbus West
May 28 Columbus East.

Liston Is Suspended From Ratings by WBA

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Former heavyweight champion Sonny Liston hasn't been suspended by the World Boxing Association. But he can't fight to regain his crown until he is reinstated to the WBA's ratings.

Ed Lassman, WBA president, said Monday night that Liston had been dropped from the ratings because of a police charge pending in Denver. He is accused of carrying a concealed weapon.

The American League has only two managers who won two Major League pennants. They are Al Lopez with the Chicago White Sox and Charlie Dressen with the Detroit Tigers. Lopez won in Cleveland and Chicago, Dressen in Brooklyn.

Tiger Cindermen Drop Meet, 67-50

The 1964 track season for Circleville High School finally got under way yesterday with the Tiger cindermen losing, 67-50, to Bexley.

The meet was postponed early in the day. It was then rescheduled when the weather warmed up and cleared off slightly.

The track was slow, Bengal cinder coach Jim Lint reported. Times registered were not a true indication of the capabilities of the competitors, he said.

Jim Wood was a triple winner for the Tigers, taking the broad jump, the 120-yard high hurdles and the 180-yard low hurdles.

Doug Price cleared the high jump bar at 5-feet 10-inches to win that event. The other first for Circleville came in the 440 when Doug Pontious won in a commendable 55 seconds on the wet track.

Although the Tigers lost, Jim Lint pointed out the Bexley thinlies were more experienced in that they competed in indoor meets and already had one out door meet.

Lint noted that all Tiger first and second place finishes with the exception of one were taken by under classmen, indicating a bright track future.

Larry Plum, a senior, finished second in the low hurdles. Wood and Price are juniors and Pontious is a sophomore.

Thursday Circleville will travel to Teays Valley where a number of the track and field records are held by Tigers.

The Viking track has been improved this year and now boasts a 220-yard straightaway.

Coffee League Bowlers Feted

A smorgasboard dinner was served to the 18 bowlers and two sponsors when the Prairie Lanes Coffee League bowlers gathered for a banquet at Prairie Lanes.

A sponsor's trophy went to Lowell Ferguson, for the winning team. Trophies were also presented to team members Evelyn Brickles, Lucy Welch and Georgia Tigner.

Second place trophies went to Jones' Store and team members Lucia Spangler, Betty Whitesed and Louise Mathews.

Third place trophies went to Prairie Lanes, and team members Sandra Bowen, Phyl Manson, and Dolly Thompson.

THE HIGH game single trophy went to Georgia Tigner who posted a 221 during the season, while Louise Mathews won the high game series with a 485.

Lucia Spangler received the most improved average award. Officers elected for the 1964-65 season were Lucy Welch, president; Betty Whitesed, vice president; Louise Mathews, secretary; Rosemary Huffman treasurer Lucia Spangler, sergeant-at-arms.

Dayton Driver Named As Entrant in '500'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Bud Tingelstad of Dayton, Ohio, has been selected to drive a conventional roadster in trials for the Indianapolis "500," giving him a shot at his fourth appearance in the Memorial Day racing classic.

Tingelstad, who escaped injury when his sprint car overturned several times at El Dora Speedway in Ohio Sunday, will drive a Federal Engineering Special for Dan Levine of Detroit.

Trojan Coach To Speak at CHS Athletic Banquet

Members of the Circleville High School basketball and wrestling teams will be honored Thursday in the 4-H and Grange Building at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

George Heller will be the guest speaker at the annual CHS winter sports athletic banquet sponsored by the CHS Booster Club and the Ladies Auxiliary.

Heller is in his 13th year as head basketball coach at Portsmouth High School.

He has guided teams there to eight district championships and one state championship. In 1961, the year the Trojans won the state tournament, he was voted the class AA High School Coach of the Year and was picked to coach the south team in the North South All Star Game.

HE IS a graduate of Portsmouth High School.

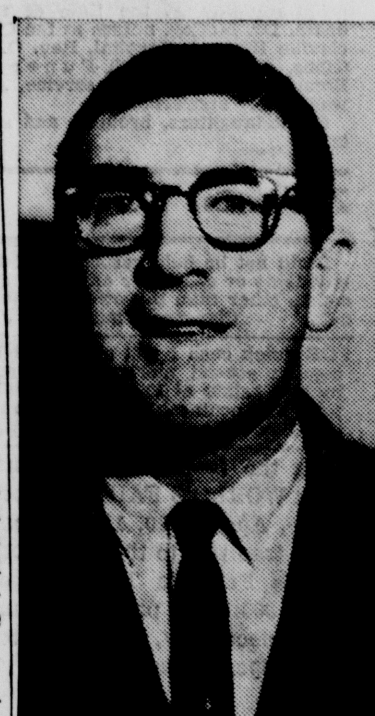

He attended college at Western Kentucky State College, Bowling Green, Ky., where he played varsity basketball under the colorful Hilltopper coach, "Uncle Ed" Diddle, frequently referred to as the man with the red towel.

Heller received both his bachelor's and his masters degrees from Western Kentucky.

The Portsmouth team was ranked eighth in the state this year and posted an 18-4 overall record. Larry Hisle, a junior at Portsmouth, made first team All-Ohio.

Heller is married and the father of three sons.

The banquet will be a carry-in style fete, it was announced by Booster president, Bob Chapman. The beverage and rolls will be provided by the

GEORGE HELLER

Booster organization.

Serving is scheduled to start promptly at 6 p. m. The banquet is open to the public.

Russian Girl Cagers Swamp American Crew

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP)—Russia's women's basketball team, defeating world champions, opened a five-game U.S. tour Monday night by overwhelming the Wayland College Flying Queens 78-36.

The Russian women took the lead with three minutes gone, upped it to 15-4 in the next seven minutes and led 31-19 at the half. They picked up the pace in the final period and had a 31-point margin at one point.

Celtics Seek Record Win

4th Royals Loss Has No Precedent

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Defense, a word seldom heard around the National Basketball Association, plays a major role tonight as the Boston Celtics seek an unprecedented four-straight sweep in the Eastern Division finals against the Cincinnati Royals.

The Celtics, who dropped seven of 12 regular season games with the Royals, have unleashed a tenacious defense in sweeping the first three games of the series. Cincinnati, held to a top production of 92 points, seems doomed even with an apparent return to form by ailing Jerry Lucas and Oscar Robertson.

Red Auerbach, the Celtics' coach, is elated with the Boston performance. He called Sunday's victory, "one of the greatest defensive efforts I've ever seen."

In the Western Division final, the St. Louis Hawks and San Francisco Warriors resume their series Wednesday with the Hawks carrying a 2-1 margin.

Don't count Wilt Chamberlain and the Warriors out of it though. Their 35-point victory Saturday night was also a study in defense with the Hawks managing just 85 points. A repeat performance would bring the Warriors right back in the thick of things.

Some onlookers and players say the main factor in the sweep is Boston's Bill Russell, whose defensive genius has taken its toll on those Cincinnati players who like to shoot from close up. The Royals hit with only 35 per cent Sunday night as Boston won the third game, 102-92.

"Russ was phenomenal in the first game, maybe the best I've ever seen him," said tamattam John Havlicek. "He was just as sensational the next two games."

Royals Coach Jack McMahon doesn't buy this theory.

"I think a lot of the show has nothing to do with Russell," he said. "It's been us. Only in three of the 12 quarters have we shot 40 per cent. You know these guys are not 30 per cent shooters."

The Royals beat the Celtics in the regular season series, 7-5.

BeeGee Ace Tops College Cage Scorers

NEW YORK (AP)—Howard (Butch) Komives, Bowling Green's hot-handed backcourt ace, is the major college basketball scoring champion.

The 6-foot-1 senior fired at a 36.7 points-per-game clip-third highest average in history—and headed a record list of seven collegians with averages of better than 30 points per game, according to final statistics released today by the NCAA.

Nick Werkman of Seton Hall, last year's No. 1 scorer, finished second this season with a 33.2 mark.

Manny Newsome, Western Michigan, 32.7; Bill Bradley, Princeton, 32.3; Rick Barry, Miami, Fla., 32.2; Gary Braddis, Ohio State, 30.6, and Steve Thomas, Xavier, Ohio, 30.0, completed the 30-point club.

Komives vaulted from 45th position a year ago to the top spot. He capped his college career with a record 50 straight free throws in his last five games.

Only Frank Selvy, former Furman star, and ex-Utah gunner Bill McGill finished with higher season averages. Selvy averaged 41.7 points per game in 1954 and McGill posted a 38.8 mark in 1962.

Ken Boyer of the St. Louis Cardinals led the National League third basemen in errors last season with 34.

Views on TV - Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Commercial television is often accused of playing a "numbers game" with its reliance on ratings when it comes to keeping or killing shows. It seems that a large segment of the viewing audience quietly plays a little numbers game of its own.

This is a game the major networks and the independent stations alike deplore. In spite of all the promotion designed to establish a station or network identity—the CBS eye, the NBC peacock, the call letters flashed on the screens at every station-break time—a large percentage of the audience persists in identifying a station merely by its channel number on the dial.

A television chain recently confirmed this through an audience research project. Almost any viewer could have predicted the outcome of the study.

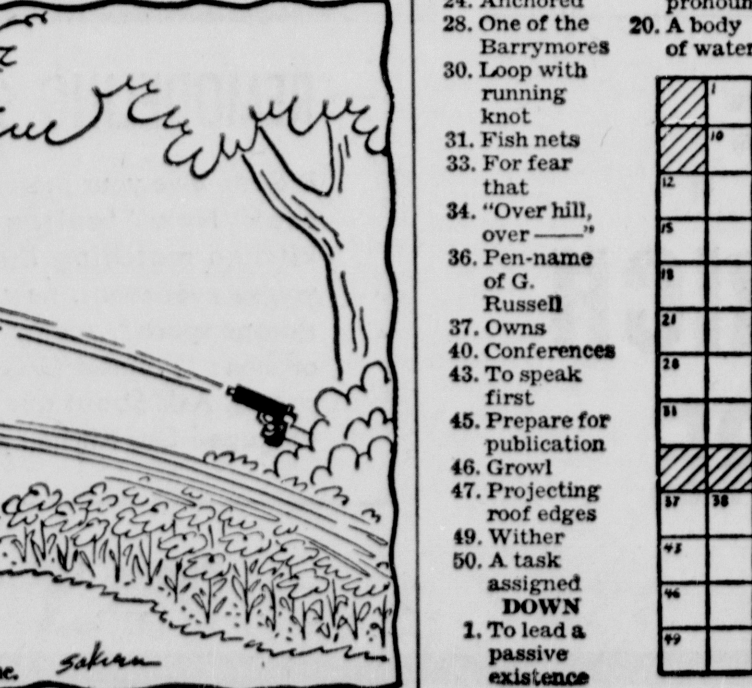

This is distressing to the industry for several reasons. Individual stations and networks work hard to establish attractive images in the minds of viewers. One New York station always announces its call letters and adds "your community-minded station." Others are "station of the stars," "The news-minded station" and so on.

The networks are particularly eager to create vivid and pleasing identities. A viewer who isn't exactly sure where his favorite show can be seen is likely to sample shows on all working channels in his hunt for it. Sometimes he likes what he samples—and never reaches the program he set out to find.

The series about psychiatry—NBC's "11th Hour" and ABC's "Breaking Point"—failed to carry the kind of impact that made "Dr. Kildare" and "Ben Casey" big hits, so both will disappear at this season's end.

Howard Puts New Life into Dodger Crew

Reluctant Dragon Breathing Fire; Alston Is Happy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Frank Howard, baseball's reluctant dragon, is breathing fire again and that means that Walt Alston, manager of the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers, can breathe just a little bit easier.

Howard, whose hulking 6-foot-7 form was conspicuously absent from the Dodger training camp for most of the spring, turned up last week and the flimsy Los Angeles attack hasn't been the same since.

The giant-sized outfielder stroked two more hits Monday night as Los Angeles whipped the New York Yankees 5-1 in an exhibition game. It brought his spring production to six hits in 15 appearances for a .400 average.

Personal problems kept Howard out of the Dodger camp until last week and without his bat the Dodger attack was somewhat on the skimpy side. Howard's lifetime slugging average of .512, tops among the Dodgers and ninth best among active players, adds a needed punch to Alston's cast.

Howard's hitting shared the spotlight with Sandy Koufax' pitching. The Dodger ace hurled six strong innings, allowing five hits and striking out six.

Bo Belinsky, the Los Angeles Angel southpaw, continues to impress in the Angels' Palm Springs, Calif. camp. He won his second game of the spring Monday, allowing only three hits in six innings as Los Angeles defeated the Cleveland Indians 7-1.

Roger Craig, who had trouble getting runs with the New York Mets, is running into the same difficulty with the St. Louis Cardinals. Craig, the victim of 12 shutouts last season, shared pitching chores with Ray Sadecki and Bob Humphries and the Cards wound up on the short end of a 1-0 verdict against Baltimore.

Elsewhere, Ken Johnson of Houston pitched six perfect innings but lost when Milwaukee bunched four hits for two runs in the second inning and a 2-1 victory. Manny Mota socked a grand slam homer, highlighting a six-run Pittsburgh rally and a 12-4 victory over Minnesota.

Kansas City lost its fifth straight as Detroit rallied for six runs in the last two innings and an 8-7 victory. Willie Mays clubbed two doubles and a triple as San Francisco topped the Chicago Cubs 9-7. The Chicago White Sox nipped the Mets 2-1 and Cincinnati defeated Philadelphia 5-3.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

CUBA: Diplomatic sources say they doubt the Organization of American States will act soon on Venezuela's request for authorization for any hemisphere nation to use military force against Cuba if it commits new acts of aggression.

Sources said Venezuela made the request in a draft resolution circulated confidentially in Caracas among representatives of member nations of the OAS.

Diplomatic informants here said Monday there are so many political and other internal problems plaguing Latin America that it seems unlikely a foreign ministers meeting will be held now to deal with Cuba.

OCEAN LIVING: Four Navy divers—a doctor and three seamen—are scheduled to spend three weeks this summer living and working under the sea.

Their home will be a 40-foot laboratory 192 feet below the ocean waves near the Navy's oceanographic research tower, the Argos Island, 30 miles southwest of Bermuda.

The experiment, Navy officers explained Monday, will be similar to some carried out by French divers: putting men to work for long periods deep in the ocean.

The divers will leave the submarine-laboratory to perform a number of tasks.

HEALTH CARE: The fate this year of President Johnson's health care plan may be decided in discussions, possibly beginning this week, by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said Monday the issue of health care for the aged is next on the committee's agenda.

Mills and other opponents of the administration plan—hospital and similar benefits for those over 65 to be paid by an extension of Social Security taxes—insist there are not enough votes in the committee to send the measure to the House for action.

Arson Filed as Man Admits Setting Fire

Suggestions Made To Aid City Firefighting Capability

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series on a study by the Circleville Fire Department aimed at producing improved firefighting capabilities. Today's story concerns numerous recommendations, set down by the Ohio Inspection Bureau, which could aid the department's operation and lead to a better fire protection classification rating.

A main objective here, according to Fire Chief Bernard Wolfe, is to improve the city's fire protection insurance rate classification. Cities in Ohio are rated through periodical checks conducted by the Ohio Inspection Bureau. Insurance rates are determined by classifications that result.

Chief Wolfe has said that Circleville's current rating could be improved if the city will take certain recommended steps. He noted that such improvements could lead to decreased property insurance rates and a fire department with increased community protection capabilities.

The Inspection Bureau has set down 19 recommendations the city can pursue in its effort to secure a better fire protection rating. They are listed here under the various categories involved:

WATER SUPPLY

1. To insure the reliability of an adequate supply, a second well should be placed in service in the existing well field.

2. An auxiliary source of power should be provided for the new treatment plant and pumping station.

3. Water mains with hydrants should be extended to the extreme northwestern section of the city.

4. Future extensions to the distribution system should tie in dead ends wherever practicable, should have hydrant placed at not more than 300 feet intervals in high value districts and 500 feet intervals elsewhere, should have hydrants with pumper connections as well as two 2½-inch outlets and watch valves, and should have valves spaced at not more than 500 feet intervals in high value districts and 800 feet in other districts.

5. All hydrant and valve inspections should be recorded and kept on file.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

6. Department membership should be increased so that a minimum of five men will be on duty at all times.

7. An active, well trained volunteer auxiliary should be organized to assist paid firemen. The volunteers should respond to all first alarms with the exception of those of a known minor nature.

8. The training program should be expanded to include theoretical sessions at the fire station and practical sessions at suitable exterior facilities. On-duty members should receive a minimum of two hours training five days each week. Volunteer training sessions of minimum two-hour duration should be held weekly.

9. As soon as sufficient manpower is available, two engine companies should respond to each structural alarm within the city.

10. Immediate consideration should be given to the purchase of a combination pumper-ladder truck with minimum 1,000 gallons per minute pumping capacity and minimum 65 foot length power-operated aerial ladder.

11. All pumers should be tested at least annually and after every major repair according to provisions of the "standard service test" recommended by the National Board of Fire Underwriters; suitable records of these tests should be maintained.

12. All hose should be tested to 250 pounds per square inch pressure at least annually; suitable hose drying facilities should be provided; suitable hose records should be established.

13. All apparatus should be equipped as recommended in the National Board of Fire Underwriters Standard No. 19.

14. The chief should be relieved of shift duty and assigned to work days only. This will enable him to devote more time to the establishment of comprehensive fire prevention and training programs.

15. As pressures are considered inadequate to properly utilize direct hydrant hose streams, it is recommended that this practice be discontinued and that all hose lines be extended through pumers.

FIRE ALARM

16. Suitable radio facilities including a base set at the fire station, monitors at the police station and water treatment plant and mobile units in all fire department apparatus should be provided as soon as possible.

FIRE PREVENTION

17. The National Electrical Code should be adopted and enforced locally.

18. A comprehensive fire prevention code similar to the abbreviated edition recommended by the National Board of Fire Underwriters should be adopted and enforced.

BUILDING DEPARTMENT

19. A comprehensive building code, similar to the abbreviated edition of the National Building Code as recommended by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, should be adopted and enforced.

Blood Appeal Is Made for Five-Year-Old

A special appeal for blood during Thursday's visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile at the First EUB Church was issued today by the Columbus Regional Blood Center.

IN NEED OF BLOOD

The appeal is being made for a 5-year-old boy who will undergo "open heart" surgery on Friday. According to the lad's family, he has been able to attend kindergarten this year, but tires very easily and is very much "under sized."

The youth's condition has been known since he was a few months old. Physicians wanted to wait until he was better developed and had set a goal of 40 pounds of weight. He now weighs 36 pounds, but his heart condition has worsened so much that they could not wait any longer, Blood Program officials report.

Blood donations may be made for the youngster Thursday between 11 a. m. and 5 p. m. at the Service Center of the First EUB Church.

Cincinnati School Stand On Integration Questioned

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Rights has questioned the willingness of school officials to end alleged de facto segregation here.

"It is still not clear that our public school authorities — and those forces to which they must readily respond—have the will to integrate our schools," said the 20-page critical report handed to the Cincinnati Board of Education by the Rev. Otis Moss Jr., committee chairman.

"So long as this state of affairs obtains (sic), increasing turmoil and strife will surely be the lot of our community."

The report endorsed the busing of children from one neighborhood to another—a measure that has aroused opposition in many Northern cities.

The school controversy so far has been marked by a lawsuit and a one-day class boycott that youngsters stay out of classes for a day.

Wendell Pierce, Cincinnati school superintendent, denied the officials are unconcerned with the problem. He said the board would study the report.

The report suggested that the board should start with a state-values of integrated education, recognizing obstacles and asserting "the intent to effect reforms immediately."

Next, the committee suggested, the board should appoint a biracial committee to study the situation and draw up a detailed integration plan that would include "measures which would bring more and more white and Negro pupils and teachers together in the schools; with a time schedule for the implementation."

"If the purposes of democratic education require the busing of additional children to

Blue Flame FESTIVAL

The Ultimate in Gas Cookery
KELVINATOR Model RG-900G

Beauty and utility are perfectly blended in this new Kelvinator eye-level, two-oven model. From top to bottom this Gold Star gas range has anticipated every need of the discriminating homemaker.

The eye-level oven, a wonderful innovation to save stooping, offers cooking convenience, clock-controlled baking, appliance outlet, large window and interior light.

The surface cooking area is illuminated and features three dual-purpose burners and a fully automatic Thermal-controlled burner. This is the burner that thinks for you . . . just set it for any temperature and that exact heat is maintained for you. The top is recessed to keep spillovers confined, and lifts up for ease of cleaning burners and burner box.

The lower oven is a giant 24-inch size, is also clock-controlled and with interior light. The separate broiler has a drop-down door. Both ovens and work top have color-matched exteriors and upper oven has sparkling chrome-lined door.

Kelvinator Model RG-900G is Gold Star approved by A.G.A.
